Lot 103 Meritage Blend

2006, Napa Valley

“A blend of Cabernet Sauvignon, Merlot, and Carmenere, crafted in the traditional style of Napa Meritage wines: highly structured and intense but with an approachability achieved through the magic of blending. The Merlot components, along with the dollop of Carmenere, really buff up this blend in structure and richness.”

CAMERON HUGHES Lot 103 Meritage Blend

2006, Napa Valley

Taste: Deep dark, black purple rim reveals a youthful nose of blackberries, cassis hints of eucalyptus/bell pepper and that classic Rutherford dust (ahhh, the smell of Rutherford). Deeply structured on the palate and, again, very youthful. You will want to decant this wine for sure.

Cameron Confidential: We secured the Rutherford Cabernet component for this wine before Cab prices began to climb and the merlot components come from $60-100/bottle programs from famous Napa Wineries. Due to the down market for merlot we were able to source this whole blend at a very “effective” price. The merlot components, along with dollop of carmenere, really buff up this blend in terms of structure and richness.

It’s important to note the difference between this wine and our past meritage blends which were merlot based and a bit softer in style. The cabernet in this blend, along with the really intense merlot and carmenere components creates a blend much more in the traditional style of Napa Meritage wines — highly structured and intense but with an approachability achieved through the magic of blending.
