

cash back & coupons | forums | hot deal news | compare prices

Search

entire site

go

Hot Deals | Free Stuff | Finance | Deal Discussion | Forums Search | Topic Alerts

Earn an extra $5 Cash Back! *restrictions apply

1

Sign Up

2

Earn Cash Back

3

Get $5 Bonus*

Go >>

Hot Deals [Hot Deals FAQ]

forum tools: new topic customize user profile today

search this topic:

go

your view: Hot Deals

Author

Message Text For:

WINE - killer wine, bargain prices, half price shipping - Cameron Hughes

[EMAIL TOPIC] [TEXT ONLY]

[FORUMS : TOPICS : REFRESH]

This Topic has 4 pages : [1 | 2 | 3 | 4 | Next]

cosjobs

Ancient Member

Date Posted: May/16/2007 7:49 PM

Rating:

This is for all the tightwad wine lovers. Cameron Hughes has been releasing some first rate bottles of wine, generally for about $11-12. For the most part, these are wines you would typically pay closer to $30+ for. If you are into the wine and not necessarily the label, this is a great chance to upgrade what you drink.

I first discovered Cameron Hughes with his Lot 23 (sold out). A delicious Meritage, I would have sworn I was drinking a $35 bottle of wine when I first tasted it. Since then I have loaded up on the Lot 27 Syrah (sold out) and Lot 29 Meritage. All were great values, as well as the Lot 30 Chardonnay I tried.

How do they do it? From their site, "Our company produces and markets wine under the Cameron Hughes "Lot" program. We do not own vineyards or ferment wine. Our business model is built around what we call in the industry the "spot" market for super/ultra premium bulk wines. Essentially, what this means in plain English is that we eliminate the middlemen. We use our own palates as guides to deliver delicious, super premium wine that is easily accessible price and style-wise."

The wines are already a great value, but when I called and asked if there was a discount I could pass along, they provided the coupon code COSJOBS, which provides half price shipping. Their shipping is already very reasonable and at half price it's hardly any more than paying tax (which only Californians must do). My last order cost only $17.19 per case to deliver by FedEx Ground (with the coupon code). And the packaging is the best I've seen yet from an online wine seller.

Cameron Hughes Wine

I will post more detailed tastings of the ones I've tried later.